TODAY - tell them to include postal funding
in the next stimulus
@ apwu.org/covidletters

Now is the time for urgent action to save the United States Postal Service from the devastating financial impact this crisis is having on its ability to operate and serve the American people.

Postal workers are essential workers who proudly step up everyday and serve the country by processing and delivering: the mail, lifesaving medical supplies and prescriptions, critical information from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and absentee ballots.

We are calling on Congress to add these provisions in the next stimulus bill:

- One-time funding of at least $25 billion;
- Funding of the difference between postage revenue and actual operating costs;
- Compensate the USPS for paid sick leave;
- Hazard pay for USPS workers;
- No strings attached for money borrowed by the USPS.

We are asking for everyone's help to ensure that this pandemic does not destroy the U.S. Postal Service, a true national treasure and a vital part of America's response and eventual recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Tell Congress: Support Our Public Postal Service

As Congress prepares further legislation to address the ongoing COVID-19 crisis, it is crucial to contact all our representatives and urge them to provide the financial support the Postal Service desperately needs.
